Turks Rebuffed Reich On War With Russia, President Inonu Says

By the Associated Press

ISTANBUL, Sept. 16.—President Ismet Inonu says that Turkey rejected all German overtures—which he said grew violent at times—to bring her into World War II against Soviet Russia.

In a lengthy article written for the Encyclopedia Britannica at Chicago and distributed by the official Anatolia Agency today, Mr. Inonu defended Turkey's war role which often had been criticized because Turkey swung over to the side of the Allies only a few weeks before Germany surrendered.

Germany, Mr. Inonu said, spared no effort to bring Turkey into the conflict.

"One of the most important events for Turkey came when Germany started her most threatening political aggression," Mr. Inonu wrote. "During France's occupation documents had fallen into German hands and in virtue of these it was proclaimed that the Turks had been partisans of certain Anglo-French projects against the Russians."

Germans Worked for Conflict. "In publishing the French documents the Germans worked with all their heart to provoke in this troubled tense atmosphere an armed conflict between the Russians and Turks. Also they presumed the Turks—left alone—would approach them as did the Romanians, in order to guarantee themselves against Russian aggression."

Mr. Inonu said Turkey rejected flatly all German demands for passage toward the mid-east while the Reich armies were assaulting Egypt. Turkey had a treaty of alliance with Britain which was defending Africa and in 1940 Mr. Inonu told the National Assembly "I deem it my duty to say that the bonds of alliance between Turkey and Britain are firm and unbreakable at this moment when the British are fighting heroically a war of existence under difficult conditions."

Turkey massed her armies in Thrace and Izmir, Mr. Inonu said, expecting momentarily that her turn would come after the Balkan invasion, but unexpectedly relations between the Soviets and Bulgaria took on a new aspect and there were "occasions of demonstrations against the Turks."

Attack on Turks Indicated. "In short everything indicated an attack was being prepared against the Turks," Mr. Inonu said.

"It was while this was going on that the Germans announced they could not attack Turkey and proposed a treaty of friendship. The Turks declared they could not conclude this agreement without conditions of safeguarding the alliance with Britain. Germany accepted this disposition."

Later Mr. Inonu said Russia had formally notified Turkey that the Soviets were satisfied with Turkey's attitude and said "Turkey's neutrality deserved to be commended."

Police Challenge Leads To 180-Day Jail Term

James Lee Ward, 22, won't be able to challenge the law again for 180 days, the sentence he got yesterday for simple assault and carrying a deadly weapon.

Policeman H. R. Cohea of No. 1 Precinct told the court he saw Ward sitting on a park bench at Fifth and G streets with a metal object protruding from his shirt on Sunday. Pvt. Cohea said that, when he asked Ward what it was, the latter replied, "You can't search me until you arrest me because it isn't a gun."

Pvt. Cohea immediately informed him he was under arrest since, gun or no gun, the iron bar he took from the man was still a deadly weapon. Ward's protests increased to the point where he tried to get away from the officer at a nearby call box. As a result, the policeman said, his wrist was sprained and his shirt torn when he tried to restrain the defendant, who lives in Colmar Manor, Md.

County Rent Unit 'Stacked,' Tenants' Group Charges

The Arlington-Alexandria Rent Advisory Board as nominated by Gov. Tuck of Virginia is "stacked in favor of the landlord point of view," a telegram to Housing Expediter Frank Creedon, signed by David Gardener, president of the Fairmore Garden Tenants' Association, asserted yesterday.

None of the seven nominees is a tenant, and four are active in the real estate or building materials business, the telegram said. It
